Sutr Santati- Conserving Indian Textile Art forms

On the occasion of the 75th Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav, Bhavyata Foundation, in association with Lemark Institute of Art, Mumbai, successfully participated in Sutr Santati promotion and preservation of weaving and painting traditions of India. We presented 6 distinct pieces using 6 art forms, employing natural fibre, handmade art and natural dyes, from across India at the exhibition. Through this initiative, we initiate a rethink between artisans, art forms and contemporary society while bringing them closer to the idea of a Greatness of a Cultural Nation like India. Master craft creations from varied art forms across the nation were depicted to showcase the glory of India's contributions to society and the world.

Sutr Santati was showcased at The National Museum, New Delhi, on 18th August. The exhibition was inaugurated by Secretary, Ministry of Culture Shri Govind Mohan. The Sutr Santati exhibition witnessed the coming together of 75 participants across segments ranging from textile and renowned fashion designers like Manish Malhotra, Gaurang Shah, Tarun Tahiliani, Gaurav Gupta, other artisans, textile artists, textile revivalists, organizations/NGOs, design institutions and proponent of spirituality Sadhguru. Sutr Santati is currently open for public viewing at The National Museum, New Delhi, till the 20th of September.
